Hey but it is true that there has been significant violence in the terms of treating citizens without thinking.....there could've been more ways such as tazing, shooting the suspect in the leg and etc.....but the police decides to shoot him right away,,,,,and I think that wasn't the best solution back then.The police departments should really have better gear and they should be taught not to use the gun all the time.Also maybe the police could've used shields to block him from each side and then taze him or something.Like firefighters, they should be ready to risk their lives not the lives of other people because if they risk their life, they are made hero.But if they are the people that kills other people, they will only be known as murderers.The duty of a police is supposed to be to protect people right? Now to kill, but to save,,,,,, and killing the suspects won't change the fact that they killed another human being.Everyone should have a second chance in their lives too.....and I would say that the police r not pigs but that they are afraid human beings.....all of the policemen aren't bad u know
